Tickets go for only a dollar

Student rates for basketball

By Patrick Nolan
Daily staff writer

SJSU basketball coach Stan Morrison is taking roll tonight.

He's making sure students will come and watch his Spartan basketball team beat Drake University.

Here's the deal: It will only cost fans $1.

The bargain rate is part of a promotion devised by the athletic department to boost attendance and give students a chance to see the Spartans at an inexpensive price in the multi-million dollar Student Union Recreation and Events Center.

The idea is to attract students who usually don't go to basketball games in the 4,500-seat arena and who might be turned off by the usual $4 price, said Deborah Pinkston, marketing director for the athletic department.

"It's a low-risk investment for those students who want to come out and see our new team and new facilities," Pinkston said.

"It's designed to attract those who may be wary about spending $4 on something they've never seen before," she said. "People are cautious consumers."

Pinkston said that the $1-a-ticket promotion is a "one time deal" but added that there will be different promotions in the future.

David Scott, the manager of the SUREC box office, said that only 10 tickets to the Drake game had been sold as of Monday afternoon, but added that the bulk of the tickets would probably be sold at the athletics ticket office, since most people are accustomed to the future.

Students call for changes in bike policy

2000 support plan to alter restrictions

By Jill McLaughlin
Daily staff writer

One SJSU student is taking action against what he thinks is an unfair bike ban on campus.

Yurich Rugel, a resident of Markham Hall, armed himself with a petition of 2,000 student signatures and took his complaints to the Associated Students at its weekly meeting Wednesday night.

The board responded by giving him a seat on a subcommittee that plans to revise the existing bike ban.

The ban, mandated by the university, was passed in late September. It prohibits the riding of bicycles, skateboards, roller skates and unicycles on all campus grounds, except parts of Seventh and Ninth streets that are enclosed by the campus perimeter.

After hearing that the ban had been passed by SJSU officials, Rugel wanted to go to the A.S. to voice his complaints. But, a board member told him he needed at least 2,000 student signatures to be given the opportunity to speak in front of the board, Rugel said.

Rugel got the signatures without any problems, he said.

"The fact that I was able to get 2,000 signatures out of such an apathetic campus, proves that it is a pretty big issue," Rugel said.

What Rugel said to the A.S. board was that "the law has flaws," he said. Some of the flaws Rugel described were the 24-hour ban and the bike parking rules.

"It's ridiculous to have a 24-hour ban," Rugel said. He would like to see a "no riding limit" between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. instead, he said.

Rugel also proposed that all bike-parking stipulations be cut from the bike ban package, he said.

The one idea Rugel had that the board "didn't like too much," was to put in a reckless-riding clause. Riders could be cited for being reckless with their bikes with this clause.

Rugel will meet with the subcommittee sometime this week, he said, but he doesn't expect any major action to take place until next semester.

"I was warned that the A.S. works very slowly and tends to put things away," he said, but the bike issue is worth the wait because of the lack of transportation alternatives.

Rugel said he has heard complaints from some residence hall students and students living in Spartan Village. The students say that bicycling to school is the only choice they have, he said.

"The parking problem is a pain in the butt," Rugel said, about the continuing problems commuters have with finding a place to park around campus.

Some members of the A.S. agree. "Bikes are a viable alternative," said Jim Walters, A.S. vice president, "especially with the parking problem."

Walters said he thinks that while there has to be a ban of some nature, "there's got to be a middle ground."

The board said there will be a decision on the matter by the second meeting of next semester.

Besides Rugel and Walters, Beckie Six, director of community affairs, and Gina Sutherst, director of student rights and responsibilities, will serve on the Holiday cheer, joy at fair

People, music, and incense have filled the Student Union for the 20th annual Christmas Faire.

This season, expected to be one of the most successful fairs in its 20 year history, hosts 60 vendors selling hand-made crafts by local artists. The fair will continue through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Judy Hermann, Student Union public relations director.

Some of the crafts available at substantial discounts include music, jewelry, incense, sweaters, tie-dyed shirts, polished stones and crystal.

"I don't take just anyone," said Hermann, who is responsible for renting table space to vendors.

"I try to get things that students will want to buy and is in their price range," she said.

The main level is dedicated to hand-crafted items from local artists, while the lower level also includes imported items, she said.

Many of this season's vendors have returned from past fairs and cite the Christmas Faire as their most successful event of the year.

"This is my third year here," said Alan Reeder-Camponi. "I think this is the strongest start for a Christmas year."

Reeder-Camponi, a vendor who sells handmade jewelry, said he participates in about 26 fairs during the year, but that this was his most successful event.

One of the reasons the fair is so successful is the discount vendors can give to students, Reeder-Camponi said. He also sells his crafts to boutiques, he said, but they have to put a mark-up on it to cover overhead costs and commissions. Reeder-Camponi said this is a common technique called "keystoning," and can sometimes double the price.

"Things they could buy here for $20, they would pay $28 or $30 at regular stores," he said.

Jewelry tables are not the only vendors reporting strong sales.

Adrienne Biliske, a vendor selling specialty music albums by Santa Cruz artist Gary Lamb said the response has been "incredible."

In their second season in the Christmas Faire, Biliske said this event was her and Lamb's best show of the

Local artists to perform on KSJS

By Vincent T. Oddo

"Spectrum: the San Jose Arts Forum" is a weekly radio show for budding San Jose talent from all aspects of the performing arts.

The show, broadcast Sundays at 6 p.m. on KSJS, began in January with a format of interviews and information about upcoming performances, but has evolved into more of a variety show, according to Camden Barbour, "Spectrum" producer.

"We are trying to make our program a showcase for local talent, so that they can present some examples of what they do," Barbour said. "We still have interviews, but they are not as long as when the show started, and we interview more people."

Each week's show deals specifically with one aspect of the performing arts, such as drama, stand-up comedy, film or music. The show's name was chosen to reflect the diversity of the subjects it covers, according to George Pinto, for whom Barbour produced "About This and That" before starting "Spectrum."

"On a recent show, we had Baomi Buttes-Bahangi, who appeared in a local production of '1940s Radio Hour,' and another of our shows, we had about five stand-up comics from local clubs," Barbour said.

For the drama shows, Barbour helps assemble a troupe of local writers, actors and actresses. Most of the actors and actresses are from SJSU, but not all of

Basketball players pulled for 2 games

By Robert Lyon

Another jolt ripped through SJSU's men's basketball program Monday, as players Troy Batiste and Robert Dunlap were suspended for violating team rules.

Head coach Stan Morrison announced a two-game suspension for the players, but declined to comment on the nature of the violations.

In a prepared statement released Monday, he indicated that no further information concerning the suspensions would be made available by the coaching staff or the team.

"Both Troy and Robert are aware of the rules our team members have and understand the penalties for the violation of these rules," Morrison stated in the release. "The coaching staff and team members expect them to return to the squad after their suspensions and make positive contributions to our team."

Neither Batiste, Dunlap, Morrison, nor any other team members could be reached for comment late Monday afternoon.

Both players will miss SJSU's next two contests on Dec. 5 against Drake University and Dec. 8 against Boise State University. They will not be allowed to practice with the team.

Batiste, a 6-foot-2 guard and a junior at SJSU, played in one of the Spartans' two games this season, scoring eight points and grabbing three rebounds.

He has played in a reserve role and has been suffering from a sprained wrist.

Dunlap, a 6-foot-11 center and a freshman at SJSU, has not played in the Spartans' two games. He is in his first season at SJSU after graduating from L.V. Berkner High School in Texas.

He signed a letter of intent to SJSU during the 1988 fall semester signing period, and Batiste signed his letter of intent during the spring signing period in 1989.

Both players joined the Spartans after SJSU's men's basketball program suffered a devastating player boycott in January.

At the end of the 1988-89 season, head coach Bill Berry was fired, and Athletic Director Randy Hoffman hired Morrison in April to rebuild the team.

University Police arrest San Jose man at South Campus

University Police officials arrested a San Jose man on eight outstanding warrants after he was stopped near Spartan Village for suspicious activity Saturday afternoon.

Barry Allen Avery, 29, was stopped in the 10th Street parking lot of Spartan Village after officers received reports that he was allegedly knocking on various apartment doors at the complex, according to a UPD report.

A records check revealed eight outstanding warrants for Avery's arrest and he was subsequently transported to Santa Clara County Jail and booked on the warrants, the report said.

Officials at the jail said they could not release any information regarding the arrest or what type of warrants Avery had.

Avery is not an SJSU student.

Spartan lady hoopsters defeat Southern Utah State in tourney

Win marks first victory since February triumph

By Steven Musil
Daily staff writer

The SJSU women's basketball team is off to an improved start and is confident about this season.

The Spartans, who finished the 1988-89 season with a disappointing 4-23 overall and 1-17 record in the Big West, posted their first win of the season defeating Southern Utah State 73-68.

The victory gave the Spartans (1-3 overall, 0-0 in the Big West) a third place finish in the A.T. & T. University of San Francisco Classic Saturday night. It also gave the Spartans their first non-conference victory since Dec. 30, 1988, when they defeated, ironically, the University of San Francisco.

In a close first round game last Friday, SJSU lost to Oregon State 72-62. The Beavers went on to win the tournament and the Spartans beat Southern Utah State in the consolation final.

Senior forward Lora Alexander posted 25 points and 16 rebounds during SJSU's victory over Southern Utah State. Alexander, who is recovering from an ankle injury, has not started a single game this season, but has managed to score in the double digits during the first four games.

Head Coach Tina Krah is critical of her team's performance, but optimistic about the season ahead.

"We turned over the ball at crucial times," Krah said. "We have to cut down on our turnovers."

"But we're fighting harder," she added. "Overall, the level of play is much better."

Krah said that she films every practice for analysis and emphasizes improvement. Her main concern, however, is keeping her players healthy.

"We haven't had a year yet when we were 100 percent," she said.

"We have had to rely on freshmen and sophomores and that isn't where our experience is," Krah added.

The list of injured starters complicates matters, according to Krah. In addition to Alexander's ankle injury, Krah cited other crucial injuries in junior guards Dana Jones and LaTasha Causey. Jones, who is the second leading scorer for the Spartans this season, suffered a slight concussion early in the Southern Utah State game. Causey, a two-year starter, has missed all four games of the season with a sprained ankle.

Despite the injuries, Krah is optimistic about the season and expects to improve on the team's 10th place finish in the Big West conference last year.

"I think if we play .500 ball, we can

The SJSU women's basketball team awaits the return of junior point-guard LaTasha Causey who hasn't played this season due to an injury.

move up to fifth or sixth," she said. "We have a higher level of intensity. We just have to play through our mistakes."

The Lady Spartans go on the road this week for three games to St. Mary's on Dec. 5, Portland on Dec. 8, and Portland State on Dec. 10.

Volleyball team lose in NCAA first round

Young players gain experience

By Todd A. Haynes
Daily staff writer

STOCKTON — The 1990 Spartan volleyball team learned its most important lesson in its final loss of 1989.

The University of Pacific Tigers advanced to the Northwest Regional semifinals by beating the Spartans 15-11, 15-8, 15-6 in the first round of the NCAA playoffs in the A.G. Spanos Center Saturday night.

But the six Spartan players on the court in game three will all return next season — with some valuable playoff experience under their belts.

Freshman Mindy Czelegier, sophomores Dawnis Wilson and Janine Ward and juniors Betsy Welsh, Mary Ann Wagner and Heather McPherson finished up the match at the hands of the Tigers.

Spartan coach Dick Montgomery put Ward in the match in place of senior setter Susie Laymon specifically for the experience.

"I took Susie out in the third (game) to give Janice a chance, to give her some experience at this level, so that when she's here next year, she'll know what it's like," Montgomery said.

Outside hitter Czelegier agreed: "We're still young, next year we'll have more seniors, and now that we know each other, we'll play better."

Playing a team with the caliber of Pacific will help as well.

The Tigers handily beat the Spartans, showing the same dominance they've shown all season against SJSU.

In the first game, the Spartans showed signs of being able to beat the Tigers. They were playing around the overwhelming size disadvantage at the net, dropping shots over the front line and carefully aiming spikes past the Tigers front-line.

"We were really pumped to play tough and we wanted to win really bad," Czelegier said.

But the Tigers won the game 15-11.

Then, SJSU took a 3-0 lead in the second game, but that was when the Tigers took over. Led by senior Elaina Oden, UOP rallied to take a 5-3 lead. Oden, UOP's all-time kill leader, had three kills and one block in that short span.

From this point on, the Tigers controlled the match, effectively blocking shot after Spartan shot. Once they got this momentum going, Montgomery said they were hard to beat.

"As they began to get into a rhythm, we didn't have the experience or sophistication to break it," he said. "We didn't have the size or strength to charge up."

"They're (UOP) a good team, and at this point in the season, they're not going to let down. They're looking for a national championship, and they're not going to look past us."

Lady swimmers split meet gain season's first victory

By Tony Mercado
Daily staff writer

SJSU's women's swimming coach Vaune Kadlubek was excited.

The former assistant at the University of Nevada at Las Vegas and first-year coach, has inherited a team that is high on enthusiasm, but low on experience.

The squad is composed of nine walk-ons and only five returnees, but was possessed with enough skill to split its first match, a Tri-Meet with UC Santa Cruz and the University of the Pacific, this past Saturday in Santa Cruz.

The Spartans finished with 52 points to go 1-1. UC-Santa Cruz had 28 points and Pacific 119.

"It went very well," Kadlubek said of the meet. "We achieved our goals and had strong finishes."

Foremost among those finishers was senior Katie Brennan, the team's captain.

Brennan helped lead the Spartans to second place in the 200-meter relay with a team time of 2:03.

Individually, Brennan was a first and second-place finisher in the 500 freestyle, 5:27, and 1650 freestyle, 18:43, respectively.

"She's one of our best swimmers," Kadlubek said.

Other swimmers contributing to SJSU's performance were junior Nicole Halfenger, sophomore Carla Iwata, and freshman Janelle Foster.

Halfenger was first in the 50 freestyle with a time of 26.15 and second in the 100 fly at 1:04.

Iwata was third in the 100 breast at 1:16. Both her and Halfenger are members of the 200-meter relay squad.

Foster placed second in the 100 freestyle and third in the 100 fly behind Halfenger.

Foster also helped the 200 freestyle squad to a second place finish with a team time of 1:50.

The results of the meet look promising for a team that went 2-9 last year.

"We're in a rebuilding stage right now," said Kadlubek. "We're trying to keep our goals intact. I just want the girls to swim faster than ever before."

The Spartans embark on a three meet home schedule beginning Saturday against the lady Bulldogs of Fresno State at 9:00 a.m. in the Aquatic Center.

SJSU will then meet Cal State Hayward at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 13 and face U.C. Santa Cruz in a rematch Jan. 6 at 9:00 a.m.

Dallas gets new coach

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks today named Richie Adubato head coach until the end of the season, replacing John MacLeod, who was fired last Wednesday.

"We feel that Richie is the right man to take this team through the rest of the season," said Mavericks vice president Rick Sund. "He's got a very good feel for the game and he's ready for this challenge."

Spartans looking for first victory of young season

By Robert Mallard
Daily staff writer

The Spartan basketball team will be looking for its first win of the season when it hosts Drake University tonight at 7:30 at the Rec Center.

The Spartans were four points away from a 2-0 season in their 64-61 and 51-50 losses to South Alabama and Lamar, respectively. SJSU hasn't played since last Tuesday when Spartan center Kenne Young's shot fell short at the buzzer in the loss to Lamar.

"They're (Drake) the best of the three teams we've seen so far this season," said Stan Morrison, SJSU head basketball coach. "They have outstanding depth in their front line."

"The boards will be our greatest concern," Morrison said.

The Spartans are not only a team with an overabundance of guards, but will be without one of the team's third leading rebounder in guard Shane McCullough.

McCullough will not suit up for tonight's game after "banging up his knee" in practice last week, Morrison said. His knee is currently immobilized. The team's physician will determine tonight whether or not he will be able to make the trip to Boise State this weekend.

McCullough will not be the only Spartan in street clothes tonight.

Junior guard Troy Batiste was suspended from the team for two games, according to a press release.

Batiste was the team's second leading scorer with eight points in the team's 51-50 loss to Lamar.

Freshman center Robert Dunlap was suspended as well.

Freshman forward Kevin Logan is the Spartans' leading scorer and rebounder. He is averaging 12.5 points per game and 9.5 rebounds per game.

Charles Terrell, a freshman walkon, is coming off an eight point performance against Lamar. He is averaging nine points per game for the season.

"I don't know if losing ever helps," Morrison said when responding to whether or not losing two close games will assist the team.

The final score is a result of 40 minutes of play," Morrison said. "In terms of play making and defense, we have to do it for 40 minutes every time."

Drake is recovering from a 71-63 overtime loss to Northern Iowa. The Bulldogs are also looking for their first win of the season.

"They have outstanding athletes," Morrison said. "They are bigger than us and very experienced. They have three senior and two junior starters."

In addition to the Drake's front line, senior returning point guard Rodney Chamble will pose a threat to the Spartans. He is averaging nearly 10 assists per game, Morrison said.

Tickets are still available for tonight's contest. The tickets are only $1 for SJSU students.

Inexperienced fencing squad defeated by powerful Stanford

By Valerie Junger
Daily staff writer

The prince was late. Sleeping Beauty never woke up.

But unlike many of the Hollywood sport movies, the favorite remained the favorite, and the underdog... lost.

SJSU fencing teams, with the exception of the epee team, were defeated by the Stanford varsity teams last Saturday, suffering losses that were expected by both coach Peter Burchard and themselves.

"What do you expect? (Stanford) has the best collegiate fencing teams on the West Coast," said Will Brown, SJSU foil fencer.

"We are from the HUP (human performance) department," Burchard added. "We are not a varsity team."

"Stanford has the bucks, the equipment, and the fencers to have good teams. Most of our fencers have only one or two semesters experience," he said.

"Still, considering what we were up against, we had a good showing."

The SJSU men's epee won 5-4, the women's foil team lost 2-14, the men's foil team lost 2-7, and the men's sabre team lost 4-5.

Victorious or defeated, SJSU fencers shared the same feelings about the meet.

"It was a good experience," said foil fencer Karen Gruber. "We lacked experience really."

Ray Illa, sabre fencer, said he thought that overall the sabre team did well but that personally, "I could have fenced a lot better."

"Anyway, I enjoyed myself and I'll come again," he added.

Brown, captain of the foil team, said that he has hope for the future.

"We are a young team that's only been to one other event," he said. "We were hurt by nervousness and inexperience. If we hold together, we'll have a good team by next year."

Brown added that SJSU fencers were so enthusiastic about the meet that they lined up two foil crews against Stanford: one to fence the varsity team and another to fence the junior varsity team.

The junior varsity foil competition resulted in a 3-6 loss for SJSU.

Chris Gilmore, whose bout against Stanford epeeist Richard Reader, brought victory to the SJSU epee team, said that he thought Burchard was a great coach.

His brother James, who fenced on the epee team as well, added that, "He (Burchard) is the one who makes it all happen."

Ware declines wealth of NFL; intends return for senior year

HOUSTON (AP) — Heisman winner Andre Ware says he can't wait for next season and not because he'll be making millions in the NFL.

"I sit back and look at what we have coming back, and it's hard not to get excited already. I just wish we had a game to get ready for on Saturday," Ware wrote in a first-person account in a Houston newspaper.

"I know people are going to start asking me right away about next year, how I can possibly improve on the season, the numbers we put up this season."

The Cougars accepted Ware as a quarterback when others recruited him as a defensive back.

Now the 1989 Heisman Trophy winner plans to ignore the riches of the NFL and repay the favor by returning for his senior year.

"People are going to wonder how I feel about the chance of getting hurt next year, maybe losing my chance to play in the NFL. I could get hurt driving down the freeway to Dickinson," Ware wrote in a column for the Houston Chronicle.

Oklahoma State's Barry Sanders, the 1988 winner, skipped his senior year and became a 1,000-yard rusher for the Detroit Lions this season.

Ware has other plans.

"I was here when this program was about to hit rock bottom and now it's special for me to see it turn around," Ware said during an emotional news conference after winning the coveted trophy on Saturday. "I'm so proud of this school."

The 13th-ranked Cougars closed out a 9-2 season with a 64-0 victory over Rice Saturday.

Ware completed 36 of 51 passes for 400 yards, finishing the season with 14 NCAA records, 13 of them achieved within this year.

"Up here, winter is not a season to be taken lightly," explained fraternity President Andrew "Cappy" Pelletier. "A lot of people drive Volkswagens. They've got front wheel drive and they're dependable. Especially when it's cold."

Brother Wick Gartley agreed. "I don't know how you happened to pick our fraternity. Seems like everyone up here drives a Volkswagen."

"I love my Vee Dub," offered Ben Maxcy. "I've got 135,000 miles on it and it's still running great." Andrew Michaud, the newest Delta, had his mind on more important matters. "How's my car look?"

Europe Turned Upside Down: THE SUMMIT

'We sought the answer to the question where we stand now.'

— Mikhail Gorbachev

Hailing beginning of a new age

MARSAXLOKK BAY, Malta (AP) — President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev left their weatherblown summit talks offering visions of a dawning era of lasting peace, with the remnants of the Cold War giving way to a better world.

They announced no breakthroughs Sunday on issues that divide their countries, such as Central America and naval disarmament, but said that was not the point of their open-agenda dockside encounters.

In their parting remarks, both chose to emphasize mutual aspirations.

"We sought the answer to the question where we stand now," Gorbachev told reporters. "Many things that were characteristic of the Cold War should be abandoned... the arms race, mistrust, psychological and ideological struggle and all that. All that should be things of the past."

Trading relaxed banter at the first-ever joint news conference of Soviet and U.S. presidents, Bush and Gorbachev repeatedly echoed each other's words as they described their talks and their hopes for the future.

"I couldn't have asked for a better result out of this non-summit summit,"

Malta Summit

- ☐ No major breakthroughs were reported on major topics such as Central America and naval strengths.
- ☐ A speed-up in arms talks and another summit next year were discussed
- ☐ Both leaders believe that the Cold War between the United States and Soviet Union is over.

Bush said. "It was a no-agenda meeting and yet it was a meeting where were discussed, as the chairman said, many, many subjects. So I think if a meeting can improve relations, I think this one has."

The next chance comes in June, when a full-scale Bush-Gorbachev summit is scheduled for Washington.

The fireworks missing in the super-power talks were supplied Sunday night in a loud and colorful display over the Grand Harbor of Valletta, the capital of this Mediterranean island nation.

Gorbachev, meanwhile, headed for Moscow to meet with his Warsaw Pact allies while Bush traveled to Brussels to brief the NATO allies.

"Tonight we stand at the crossroads of history on our way to a Europe made whole and free," Bush said when he arrived in Brussels. "Today as the sun broke through the clouds there at Malta, we could see both a new world taking shape, a new world of freedom," he said.

Gorbachev said he was "encouraged and inspired" by the reforms sweeping Stalin-style communism from Eastern Europe. He said the changes stem from "the desire of these peoples to ennoble their societies, to make them more democratic, humanitarian, to open up the rest of the world."

The weather in Malta was less congenial. What was planned as an offshore summit alternating between U.S. and Soviet warships never came off.

Saturday afternoon's session was canceled when Bush could not get off the guided-missile cruiser USS Belknap because of 60 mph winds and high seas.

The two rounds of talks that did take place were both moved to the Soviet cruise liner Maxim Gorky, docked at Marsaxlokk Bay several hundred yards from the naval vessels. Neither leader ever made it to the missile cruiser Slava, intended to be the Soviet summit site.

Gorbachev suggested cutting naval forces on the two sides, but Bush, whose large-ship navy predominates, said he was "disinclined to think that this is an area where we will have immediate progress."

U.S. officials said Moscow could benefit from cuts in tariffs on Soviet exports to the United States and American support for its participation in the 97-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in exchange for relaxing emigration restrictions on Soviet Jews.

The leaders also ordered their officials to speed up negotiations on treaties to cut conventional arms in Europe and long-range nuclear weapons in hopes of signing both next year.

Bush report to NATO upbeat

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — President Bush reported Monday to NATO leaders on his superpower summit with Mikhail S. Gorbachev, saying the allies can be pleased with two days of talks that helped "tear down any remaining barriers" erected during 45 years of Cold War.

The president said the meeting helped dispel Gorbachev's doubts about Bush's attitude toward economic and political reforms in the Soviet Union, as the United States applauds the fall of hard-line communist regimes throughout Eastern Europe.

"I don't think he has me down as a total negativist at all and I certainly don't have him down" that way, Bush said before leaving the Mediterranean island of Malta, where he held eight hours of discussions with Gorbachev aboard the Soviet cruise liner Maxim Gorky.

Arriving here Sunday night, Bush said, "Much was accomplished to accelerate and improve East-West relations."

While there were no concrete agreements, Bush and Gorbachev said they want to speed completion of three arms control treaties: to banish chemical weapons, slash long-range nuclear missiles by as much as 50 percent and to reduce troops, tanks, artillery and other conventional forces in Europe.

There had been some concern among the allies that Bush and Gorbachev might strike an arms deal without consulting them, but Bush said there were "no surprises."

Today's gathering of leaders from the 16-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization was a mini-summit of its own. Bush planned to brief them during two rounds of talks spanning about 4½ hours.

Gorbachev, meanwhile, was back in Moscow to brief leaders of a radically reshaped Warsaw Pact. Attendance by Polish Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki, a Solidarity figure, marked the first time a non-communist would sit at the table.

East Europe in Brief

• EAST GERMANY

Reformer emerges as new leader entire 163-member Central Committee.

• POLITICS

Is Bush now sold on Gorby?

EAST BERLIN — New Premier Hans Modrow emerged today as the face of power in East Germany after the entire Communist Party leadership quit in disgrace and told a 25-member committee to salvage what it can.

The official ADN news agency reported that the 61-year-old reformer and former Dresden party chief was leading the country's delegation at the Warsaw Pact summit that began in Moscow.

Also attending the summit were Foreign Minister Oskar Fischer and Egon Krenz, who resigned as party chief Sunday along with the party's 10-member ruling Politburo and its Political pundits say that perhaps the most important result of the summit was a greater trust of Gorbachev by President Bush. Before Malta, Bush took a more cautious approach to the Soviet leader and his ideas that did President Reagan, writes R.W. Apple in Monday's New York Times.

Bush's positive descriptions of the summit may indicate that he now has fewer questions about Gorbachev's motives, Apple states.

News of another summit next year would seem to back this idea up.

"I brought two cases of CDs and they sold out in the first hour," she said. Biliske suggested that the popularity of Lamb's music and special student discounts made it a high demand product.

"Students find the music easy to study by," she said. Biliske added that Lamb wanted to participate more and would probably be available to sign albums in the Student Union on Friday.

"Afterward, I suggested to (the vendor) that he raise his prices," Kanan said.

Pointing to the artist's personal attention to the handmade crafts, Kanan said

"It's better than those generic gifts at Macy's," he said.

Music fills the Student Union from the basement coffee house where a different musical act performs every hour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Friday.

The Christmas Faire was begun by a student organization 20 years ago as a fund-raiser for campus child care but the Student Union took control when it got too big, according to Hermann.

The vendors pay $125 for a booth on the lower level and $175 for a booth on the upper level.

In addition to the Christmas Faire, the Artist Guild is selling pottery, jewelry, and silk prints in a tent in the Art Quad across from the Student Union. All the crafts are made by SJSU art students.

Buildings rock after sonic boom

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sonic booms set off by a descending space shuttle created ground motion that showed earthquakes may shake Los Angeles skyscrapers more violently than once thought, scientists said Monday.

"Engineers say we don't need to worry about it, but I'm not so sure," said geophysics professor Hiroo Kanamori of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. "It's time to really think about this problem more carefully and more seriously."

The early morning booms prompted dozens of alarmed calls to police. The shuttle was returning from a five-day mission to deploy a spy satellite.

The thumps against the buildings were transmitted down to the soft sediment of the Los Angeles Basin, triggering seismic waves that reached Caltech instruments 12.5 seconds before the sonic booms were heard there. That's because waves move more quickly through rock than through air.

He also mentioned the possibility of taking the show live within the next year in hopes to attract more people to interview on the show. But, he later added, "This is only in the planning stages."

subcommittee.

The group plans to complete a proposal and present it to the university for consideration.

The ban has not yet been enforced, but University Police officers have begun to issue warning citations. The policy will become effective once signs are posted and a sufficient number of racks are moved to the perimeters of campus, according to Ric Abeyta, public safety director.

The main purpose of the ban is to reduce the risk of injury to pedestrians because of the potential dangers that bicycles and skateboards pose, the policy states.

Skateboards and roller skates are totally banned from the campus in the policy and bicycles and unicycles can only be ridden on portions of 7th, 8th, 9th and San Carlos streets. Bikes can only be parked on designated bike racks and bikes that are locked to trees or other objects will be impounded, with a $5 fee for recovery.

Violators will face fines that range from $25 to $30.
